

The new Claims 21 to 39 are all dependent on new Claim 20 and should be allowed.

List of Current New Claims:

For clarity, the following are the New Claims, that should substitute all current claims:

New Claim 20:

A communication system for wireless communications, comprising:

- A. a computerized, connected to the Internet, center for forwarding information as required to establish an IP connection between a first user and a second user where at least one of them is using wireless or cellular or cordless hand held device;
- B. an add-on plural of base station which connects to the Internet or Intranet comprising:
 - I. a communication link to a user having a wireless or cellular or cordless hand held device;
 - II. means to communicate with the computerized center in order to get the appropriate IP address of the second user;
 - III. means to establish the communication of the first user with the second user via the Internet;

Claim 21: The system of claim 1 wherein the computerized center is distributed to create distributed computerized center.

Claim 22: The system of claim 1 wherein the computerized center has means to control the operation of the add-on base stations.

Claim 23: The system of claim 1 wherein the computerized center has cryptography means to preserve the privacy and or anonymity of the users.

Claim 24: The system of claim 1 wherein the computerized center has means to establish the billing criteria of a communication between users.

Claim 25: The system of claim 1 wherein the computerized center has means to create cryptography protected digital documents to be used by the users and the base stations in order to affect reliable communication link and on line billing scheme according to predefined criteria.

- Claim 26: The system of claim 1 wherein the computerized center has means to acquire, keep and monitor the physical location of the base stations.
- Claim 27: The system of claim 1 wherein the computerized center has means for keeping track in real time of users that can be reached through each one of the base stations.
- Claim 28: The system of claim 1 wherein the communication between the parties is routed through the computerized center.
- Claim 29: The system of claim 1 wherein the base station includes means for generating and receiving control signals to facilitate communication with the user.
- Claim 30: The system of claim 1 wherein the hand held device can assume some of the roles of the base station, such as communicating with the computerized center.
- Claim 31: The system of claim 1 wherein the base station is also connected to the public switched telephone network (PSTN).
- Claim 32: Deleted.
- Claim 33: The system of claim 1 wherein the base station has means to create two way communications between the user and a remote user.
- Claim 34: (New) The system of claim 1 wherein each base station has a unique ID that is independent of its IP address.
- Claim 35: (New) The system of claim 1 wherein the handset supports handover of an on-going conversation.
- Claim 36: (New) The system of claim 1 wherein the location of the base station can be determine by the computerized center.
- Claim 37: (New) The system of claim 1 wherein a base station can receive calls from the PSTN for several handsets, and route a call to the correct handset.
- Claim 38: (New) The system of claim 1 wherein a handset can make outgoing calls to PSTN and receive incoming calls from PSTN, where one or more base stations can provide the PSTN connection.

Claim 39: (New) The system of claim 1 wherein handsets can relay communications made by other handsets until the communication reaches a base station or the destination handset.
